10.⊠ Other: See Continuation Sheet	\mathcal{A}	To Me

U.S. Patent and Trademark Office PTOL-303 (Rev. 11-03) Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicant states that Kobe et al does not have the extended body portion, i.e. the flap. Kobe et al states in Col. 8 lines 38-64, that the invention is used on envelopes, mailers, and pouches. And specifically discusses reclosable office envelopes which are envelopes with a closure flap. The flap is the extended body portion that is claimed.

Continuation of 10. Other: The proposed correction to drawing 6 is approved. Proposed drawing 3a is disapproved since there is no support for the proposed showing of the upper release liner. The specification does not state that it is peeled back as it is shown in the new drawing.
